The Cale onia county case of D. F. Hoi den against the Eurland railroad company was also argued by E. H. Deavitt for the plaintiff and F. H. Button for defendant.

The leatuage for basing this term—the petition for a new trial for Charles Doberty—was begon at three o'clock on Ta day This case will probably consume the time of the court until Welnesday noon. E. H. Deavitt and Hon. Frank Plumley appear for the petitioner and States Attorney Hose and W. A. Land for the State. Doberty was brought from Windsor Monday evening and was in court that afternoon. Those who saw him dering his trial would hardly recognize him now. He has a inxuriant authurn heard, and has grown fleshy during his confinement at Windsor.

LETTER TO JOHN W. PECK.

(Montpelier.)

Dear Sir: It takes 3000 gallons of paint for the two big hotels at Coney Island—Manhattan and Oriental. They are painted once in three years with Devoc lead and since et once in three years with Devoc lead and zinc.

Why so often? Three reasons: (1) sea air cuts paint; (2) sand in the wind cuts paint; (3) hotels, especially pleasure hotels, want freshness and color as much as protection. Once in three years is often enough and not too often to paint a hotel on a windy sandy beach.

How long do you think lead and oil would lest there? One year. Is there anything for you in this?

Yours truly,

UNION TEMPERANCE MEETING.

The union temperance meeting, held flunday evening in the Baptist church, was largely attended. The Congregational singing was led by a chorus choir of fourte n male voices. Rev. W. J. Cloues opened the service with Scripture reading and was followed in prayer b. Rev. J. H. Metcail of Burlington, after which the speaker of the evening, Rev. George W. Hunt of St. Johnsbury, was introduced.

Mr. Hunt was no stranger to the audience or to the work as he was before the Legisleture lest fail and presented the claims of The union temperance meeting, held fluuture last fail and presented the claims of superance in a vigorous and logical man-

In opening he asked if it was still neces-In opening he asked if it was still necessary that the people should be educated in regard to this evil and their duty concerning it. He said since coming here he had learned that Monipelier still has present bibulous delights so that it is still necessary to sidd line upon line and precept upon precept in regard to the evil. He said as a boy he had learned to hate this evil for the poverty and wretchedness it brought to his home. He held that social conviviality prejudices the prohibitory law and makes drunkards. That we have reached an age where we appear to believe we cannot have an aristocratic gathering without the full where we appear to believe we cannot have an aristocratic gathering without the full decanter and the possing of the social glers. It is claimed that the prohibitory law drives the sale of liquor to underground resorts and that license would regulate this. He doubted if any one had ever seen a place where the evil is regulated above or below ground and if they had he would like to know it and would try to get money enough to go and see that place. The only way he believed it could be regulated was by killing it, not by licensing it, by giving enough to go and see that place. The only way he believed it could be regulated was by killing it, not by licensing it, by giving it the sanction and protection of the State of Vermont. By so doing the barriers raised by prohibition that all these years have protected women, children, society and the church would thus be broken down.

In this connection the speaker related an incident of his boyhood. While living in New Jersey he went to a saloon one day and was assisting his father out of the saloon, the keeper placed a glass of liquior in his father's tremoling hands and helped him raise it to his lips. The son remonstrated, whereupon the keeper pointed to his certificate of themse on the wail, signed by the city council, and said that he paid for the right to sell and was protected in it and ordered the son out of his place.

A good deal has been said about the Vermont liquor signedes, but of the $250,000 claimed to be sold yearly in this way for medicinal, mechanical and bibliods purposes the pro rata only reached seventy five cents per capits, while if all saloons ore established under Lorne in this city, the keepers to pay expenses and get a bare I ving would have to sell yearly enough to raise the senemat to $15 per capits.

United States district court at Windsor took a recess on Eriday until Wednesday Jane 5. The grand jury was discharged after reporting twelve true bills found and one not found. VERGENSES, May 25,—As a result of the recent session of the United States district court at Windsor, a piece of very astounding news has been released, which will create a profound sensation throughout the State.

This news pertains to the findings of the grand jury of the United States court in its investigation of the causes of the collapse of the Farmers National Bank of Vorgenies. The grand jury, it is reported on good authority, has found indictments under the United States banking act against Martin Fistcher Allen of Ferrisburgh, vice-president of the bank and the present lieutenant-governor of Vermout, Cashier Dixon H. Lewis and Representative John W. Keihum of Vergenies, charging them with embezzlement and misappropriation of the bank's funds and making false entries in its books atives in 1882, of the Senate in 1890, and was elected lieutenant governor in 1900. He has been very active in politics and popular with his constituents.

John W. Katchum was born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1803 and located in Vergennes in 1891 and received his education in the public schools of New York. He has been a member of the Vergennes city council, was teller in the Farmers bank for one year and was elected Representative from Vergennes in 1903. He is publisher of the Vergennes Enterprise and a manufacturer of hen feed. In outline, the connection of Lieut.-Gov. Allen and Representative Ketchum with the downfall of the Farmers bank, it is sileged, is as follows:

When Katchum was teller of the bank he is said to have continually gone to Cashiar

leged, is as follows:

When Ketchum was teller of the bank he is said to have continually gone to Cashier Lewis and warned him that Mr. Allen was crooked and to look out for him, and, vice versa, to have gone to Mr. Allen and warned him in the same manuer about Lewis. But, in spite of all this, it is charged, he raised Mr. Allen's deposit $2.800 in one year over the amount actually deposited. Growing bold in the connivings, he began his peculations at the low figure of $25, and the sums increased until $200 or $300 at a time were taken. While Keichum has occupied an impretentions real-dence, yet he has individed in other luxuries which caused much comment among his acquaintances, seithey could not understand now the revenue from his seg-producing food and a country paper could be made to meet his expanditures, and he had no private fortune, as he came to town a few years sloce as a common laborer.

It is claimed that Lieur, Gov. Alien's explanation of his position in the affair is even worse than the offence alleged. It is claimed that he explains the $2.800 over deposit credited to him by saying that he did not know how much money he had in the bank, but heat drawing nevertheless. Another singular feature is his alleged borrowing of $5.000 from a Barlington bank as a loan for the Farmers bank. This $5.000 was entered on the Farmers bank. This $5.000 was entered on the Farmers bank and Cashier Lewis used the remaining $1.000. When the note in the Burlington bank became and in checked out $4.000 of it and Cashier Lewis used the remaining $1.000. When the note in the Burlington bank became due it was most with bank funds, but in stead of charging Gov. Allen or his daughter, Hallen.

This dealers were the control of the production of the parent of the p

Allen.
This deal gave Mr. Allen $9,000, and while This deal gave Mr. Alien $3,000, and while it is now not known just how much he has overdrawn, it is believed the sum will amount to between $15,000 and $20,000. The queer part of his explanation is said to be that, while he was checking out the sums he should claim that he did not know at any time that he was overdrawing his account.

any time that he was overdrawing his account.

It is expected that both Mr. Atlen and Mr. Ketchum will be arrested by United at the state of good authority that Lieut. Gov. Allen courts the fullest investigation, it is understoon that he claims that, if his accounts at the Vergannes bank are not straight it is because they have been juggled by the defaulting cashler. During all the years Lewis has been cashler of the bank Lieut. Gov. Allen has never kept a pass book. When the cashler told him his account was overdrawn he has made it good, without questioning his account. Lieut. Gov. Allen is anxious to have an expert examination of his personal account at the bank, and is said to have no fear as to the result.

Burlington, May 27.—J. W. Ketchum was arrested at Vergennes by U. S. Marshall Field this forencen on charge of compicity in the Farmers National bank frauds and embezzlements, under the recent indictment of the United States grand jury at Windsor. At the hearing before the United States court sitting in this city his ball was fixed at $5,000. Mr. Ke clum was held in custody pending the arrival of security on the 4:20 train this afternoon.

BURLINGTON, May 27.—Gov. Allen will furnish bail at his home in Farrisburgh. The amount is not at this time known. In an interview this morning Gov. Allen expressed himself as confident regarding the outcome. He says the Allen eatate owes the bank $4,000, he owes it about $3,000 on paper, In it about $2,000 on overdrafts.

Representative John W. Ketchum was unable to raise $5,000 bail on Monday andwas committed to Chittenden county fail. There he will have to remain until Wednesday night at least for Clerk of the United States Courts George E. Johnson, before whom the bail would be given, went this morning to Brattleboro and will not return until Wednesday night.

At the jail last night Mr. Ketchum, while not feeling strictly "at home" was composed in his demeanor and said that he was confident he could secure bail without serious difficulty. He was glad to converse with bis visitors, and incidentally amused himself by talking "horse." When cautioned against tipping his chair back upon the stone floor of the jail office he remarked that his life was insured for something over $24,000 which wouldn't be a bad thing for his fam ly to receive. The cell in which Ketchum slept last night is one of those used for women and the better class of prisoners upon the second floor.

When told in the afternoon that a rumor was current that his account was found to be short $20,000 he said "It isn't my account. My account is all right." When asked if he made the figures in the blank books which raised Lieu-Governor Allen's account $2,800 he admitted that he did but said "I didn't do it intentionally."

Lieut Gov. Allen promptly farnished the $10,000 bail required and was in custody

but said "I didn't do it intentionally."

Lient Gov. Allen promptly farmished the $10,000 bail required and was in custody only a few minutes. The bondsmen were the neighbors and friends of Mr. Allen who of their own free will offered to become his bondsmen. In fact more effered their services in this respect than were needed. It having been intimated that there are other indictments in the Farmers' National bank case than those stready named, it is proper to state that this is pure surmise. # Men Who Are Weak Can be

Strong. MONTPELIER, VT.

May 2, 1901. Having been a sufferer for the last five years from sexual weakness which has caused me a good deal of pain and distress, as well as a great deal of expense for doctor's bills and medicines. and having been able to work but a small part of the time and suffered the inconvenience of wearing a suspensory and abdominal bandage all the time, until recently, and now being able to do without them, I feel it my duty to submit this statement to the public: I went to Prof. B. G. Wilkins for treatment two months ago and he told me he could help me, which he has to my satisfaction. My condition improved from the first treatment, and today I consider myself practically cured. I can do a day's work with any man and not feel the worse for it. The develop ment through my whole physical system is remarkable. I suffer no pain and have gained in strength and my general health was never better. Any man who suffers from any such weakness I want to advise to consult Prof. Wilkins, as I am sure he can help him The for he has done wonders for me.

Respectfully Yours, B. K. M.
